

TRUTH MORE TERRIBLE THAN EARLIER STORIES

Of the Disaster Which Fell Upon the Island of Martinique

A Visit to the Desolate City of St. Pierre, Where 30,000
Corpses Lay Carbonized or Roasted—Sharks Fighting
Along the Shore for the Bodies of Those Who Sought
Safety in the Sea from the Awful Deluge of Fire—
Mount Pelee Sent Out Poisonous Gases to Aid in the Work of Destruction.

Fort de France, Martinique, May 12.—It now seems generally admitted that about 20,000 persons lost their lives as the result of the outbreak of Mount Pelee at St. Pierre on Thursday. A careful investigation by government officials shows that the earlier reports of the associated press were accurate. The American consul at Guadeloupe, Louis H. Ayne, has reached the desolate spot where St. Pierre stood and confirms the awful story in all its essential details.

From an interview with Colonel Ayne, who is a trained American newspaper man, a correspondent of the associated press learned the following facts: On Thursday morning the inhabitants of the city awoke to find heavy clouds shrouding Mount Pelee's crater. All day Wednesday hard deluge had been heard. These were heard from St. Thomas on the north to Barbados on the south. The commanding ceased on Wednesday night, and fine ashes fell like rain on St. Pierre. The inhabitants were alarmed, but Governor Moutier, who had arrived at St. Pierre the evening before, did everything possible to allay the panic.

The British steamer Roarua reached St. Pierre on Thursday with ten passengers, among whom were Mrs. Stokes and her three children and Mrs. H. J. Ince. They were watching the rain of ashes when, with a frightful roar and terrific electrical discharges, a tornado of fire, mud and steam swept down from the crater over the town and bay, sweeping all before it and destroying a fleet of vessels at anchor off shore. There the account of the catastrophe so far obtainable ceases.

FEAST FOR SHARKS.
Thirty thousand corpses are strewn about, buried in the ruins of St. Pierre or else floating, gnawed by sharks, in the surrounding seas. Twenty-eight charred, half dead human beings were brought here. Sixteen of them are already dead, and only four of the whole number are expected to recover. The associated press steamer, chartered in Guadeloupe, reached Martinique at 6:30 on Sunday morning. The island with its lofty hills was hidden behind a large veil of violet or leaden colored haze. Enormous quantities of wreckage of large and small ships and houses strewn the surface of the sea. Huge trees and too often wrecks of ships of sea gulls scurrying about and hissing sharks fighting about them, were floating here and there. From behind the volcanic veil came blasts of hot wind, mingled with other ice cold.

At Le Preeheur, five miles north of St. Pierre, canoes with men and women, frantic to get away, begged for passage on the steamer. The white and red end of the island was covered with a silver-gray coating of ashes, resembling dirty snow. Further blasts of fire, noise and mud swept over the steamer, but finally St. Pierre was reached.

THE DESOLATE CITY.

The city of St. Pierre stretched nearly two miles along the water front, and half a mile back to the cliff at the base of the volcano. The still smoking volcano, rising above the ash covered hills. The ruins were burning in many places, and frightful odors of burned flesh filled the air.

With great difficulty a landing was effected. Not one house was left intact. Viscid heaps of mud, of brighter ashes, or piles of volcanic stones were seen on every side. Streets could hardly be traced. The air and there and the ruins were heaped of corpses. Almost all the faces were downward.

A careful inspection showed that the heavy stream which so completely destroyed St. Pierre must have been composed of poisonous gases which suffocated everyone who inhaled them, for nearly all the victims had their hands covering their mouths, or were in some other attitude showing that they sought relief from suffocation. All bodies were carbonized or roasted. A. G. Austin, manager of the Colonial bank of Barbados, landed at St. Pierre with a party from the British royal mail steamer Solent. He found the bank clock stopped at some minutes before 8 o'clock, a horse and buggy and a policeman in a dead group at the door.

VICTIMS OF SOUFFRIERE.
Roucou, Island of Dominica, R. W. L. Sunday, May 11.—The Souffriere volcano on the island of St. Vincent has been in full eruption since Wednesday last. Several plantations have been destroyed. Earthquakes and loud reports accompanied the eruption, and

BUSINESS WAYS OF AMERICA

Observations by the British Consul at Chicago

He Sees a Reason for the Commercial
Success of the United States—
An Education Which Teaches a Boy Independence.

Washington, May 12.—Some plain suggestions regarding American business methods are given by the British consul at Chicago, Mr. Wyndham, in a report to the British foreign office, a copy of which has just reached the treasury bureau of statistics.

The commercial success of the United States, and especially of the city at which he is located is described by Consul Wyndham as being due in part to the education which teaches the boy independence and knowledge of his future responsibilities, and does not set the precedence above business as a means of gaining a living.

"Attitude of all kinds are much encouraged in schools and universities, but very few men continue to take part in them after completing their education. Americans are as fond of outdoor life, shooting and fishing, as the men of any European country, but they usually take care to do so in a way which does not interfere with their business."

"Another cause of success is the keeping of the money which has been made in the business, and the means which have made the business, in a long as possible, and even though it is desired to retire, the money is not given away, but is used to start a new business, or to start a new branch of the business."

"The statehood bill was referred to the committee on territories. It has been held for its consideration, but it is expected that the committee will meet some time next week and consider the bill. Delegate Smith continues to improve."
